The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-4, 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Slater, Jr. et al (US 2003/0015721 A1).

Slater, Jr. et al discloses a submount comprising a submount substrate (75), a solder layer (80) formed on the top surface of the submount substrate, and a semiconductor light-emitting device (100) mounted on the solder layer. Note paragraph [0061] of Slater. No patentable weight is given to "a surface roughness ... before the solder layer is melted" because it is drawn to a product by process. The surface roughness in the final structure is not defined and therefore it can be any roughness. A "product by process" claim is directed to the product per se, no matter how actually made, In re Hirao, 190 USPQ 15 at 17(footnote 3). See also In re Brown, 173 USPQ 685; In re Luck, 177 USPQ 523; In re Fessmann, 180 USPQ 324; In re Avery, 186

USPQ 161; In re Wertheim, 191 USPQ 90 (209 USPQ 554 does not deal with this issue); In re Marosi et al, 218 USPQ 289; and particularly In re Thorpe, 227 USPQ 964, all of which make it clear that it is the patentability of the final product per se which must be determined in a "product by process" claim, and not the patentability of the process, and that an old or obvious product produced by a new method is not patentable as a product, whether claimed in "product by process" claims or not. Note that applicant has the burden of proof in such cases, as the above caselaw makes clear.

In re claim 6-8, Slater discloses the barrier layer (35).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Slater, Jr. et al (US 2003/0015721 A1) in view of Hikasa et al (US 5770821) and Kitaoka et al (US 2001/0053167 A1).

Slater discloses all the subject matter discussed above. Hikasa further teaches that the top surface of the submount substrate is less than 0.10  $\mu\text{m}$ . Note lines 61-63, column 5 of Hikasa. Kitaoka et al further teaches that the submount is formed of AlN. Note paragraph [0105]. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the teachings of Slater, Hikasa and Kitaoka to form the claimed structure.

Claim 9 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The other references are cited to show other structures pertinent to Applicants' disclosure.
